THE BACKUS

Water Motor

Run from Hydrant Pressure.

Since the introduction of water by the HOLLY SYSTEM, we have been carefully testing

The Backus Water Motor

as a substitute for steam, for Mechanical Industries. The result has proved so satisfactory as to power and economy, that we now offer them with the full confidence of established success, to parties needing something more than foot or hand power, and not warranting the expense of steam.

The cost of running this MOTOR is only for the consumption of water while the motor is in use.

We are ready to make contracts for furnishing Motors set ready for use and guarantee their work full up to the conditions agreed upon.

THE "TIP TOP."

This Joint is pronounced by all who have seen it, to be the BEST ARRANGEMENT for tipping the top of a Carriage Umbrella that has been offered to the public, its merits placing it so far ahead of all others as to leave it without a competitor!

It is applied to the stick about twenty inches below the top of the Umbrella; thus bringing the joint high enough to allow of the top being inclined in any direction and at any angle, without inconveniencing the occupants of the carriage. This is one of the DECIDED ADVANTAGES of this invention over all others.

It is no larger than the stick; thus allowing the runner to slide up and down, freely, over it.

It is very simple in its construction and operation, and can be easily changed to any direction.

It can be applied to any Umbrella in a few minutes, as it is only necessary to saw the stick apart and fit the ends to the sockets of the Joint.

It is made of the best malleable iron, and forms the strongest part of the stick.

It weighs only one and one-half pounds, making it by far the lightest mechanism in use for tipping Umbrellas.

It has all the advantages of other inventions, with none of the objections applicable to them, and costs only about half as much!

In connection and for use with our Joint, we have the best Foot Piece, for holding the Umbrella in position, that there is in the market. This consists of a socket and point fitting the same, and, being self-fastening, takes no time to secure it.

By the use of this Joint the practical value of a Carriage Umbrella for protection is increased more than two hundred per cent., and no one will be without it after seeing its advantages.

By its use all the protection afforded by a covered carriage is obtained, while the air has free circulation all around.

It will be found useful in all kinds of open vehicles, for farmers, professional men, for boats, for sea-shore and artists' use, and ladies' and gentlemen's pleasure phaetons. For shelter at the sea shore it is very valuable. In short, it enhances the value of Umbrella protection wherever it is used.

A Republican Gala Day in Bangor—Unfurling of the new and splendid Campaign Banner.

Yesterday was a glorious day for the Republicans of Bangor. The weather was delightful and all the imposing exercises of the day were conducted with a gratifying and even inspiring success. The first event upon the programme was the unfurling of the new Campaign Banner, in West Market Square, and at 2 P. M. the notes of the Cornet Band summoned a large crowd of earnest spectators. The wire from Wheelwright & Clark's to Smith's block had been raised upon poles, and at the signal the most beautiful banner ever displayed in the State unfolded its broad stripes and floated out in grand and graceful proportions over the square. The new banner, which is constructed of the finest materials, is a mammoth United States Ensign, surmounted by a broad white field on which is inscribed, with an eagle and scroll work, the names of "HAYES AND WHEELER" in large letters tastefully shaded. Across the bottom another white band bears the name of "SELDEN CONNOR" in similar letters. The ornamentation of the blue field consists of the coat-of-arms of the State of Maine inside of a circle of white stars. The figures on the escutcheon are nearly life size and the painting does great credit to the artist, A. B. Marston Esq. The Flag proper is forty-two by twenty-eight feet and with the inscriptions is fifty feet and six inches in depth. Messrs. Hincks & Nealley have taken pride in making this the most elegant banner ever unfurled in Maine, and it excites much admiration.

As it was thrown out E. C. Brett Esq. called for cheers for the Flag and the standard-bearers, which were heartily given and after some stirring music, the Band and the assemblage proceeded to the mass-meeting.

THE MASS MEETING IN ABBOTT SQUARE.

Long before the appointed hour the people began thronging to the Square, where a large platform was erected for the speakers and seats arranged for a large number and specially assigned for the ladies.—Across Harlow-st. above and below, large and handsome National Ensigns were hoisted and others were tastefully disposed among the trees on the grounds and upon the stage, which bore the names of Hayes and Wheeler in large letters. The flags were kindly furnished by Messrs. Hincks & Nealley and added much to the cheerful appearance of the grounds. The buildings of B. N. Thoms Esq. adjoining were also decorated and provided with seats for a large number of spectators. Other residences and buildings in the vicinity were decorated with flags, while many elegant ones were hung out by private citizens in all parts of the city. Prior to the arrival of the speakers the Cornet Band discoursed enlivening music and several new campaign songs were sung with fine effect by Mr. James Nicholson of Washington, the audience joining heartily in the chorus.

ARRIVAL OF THE SPEAKERS.

The noon train from Waterville brought Gov. Connor, Col. Ingersoll and Senator Blaine, Mr. Kasson having been unavoidably diverted to address a meeting in Auburn. The distinguished gentlemen were met at the cars by the Penobscot member of the State Committee, Capt. Small, Chairman of the City Committee, Joseph F. Snow, Esq., President of the Campaign Club, and Dr. E. F. Sanger, at whose residence the Governor was entertained during his stay. Col. Ingersoll and Senator Blaine were escorted to the Bangor House, and immediately after dinner, they, in company with Z. L. White, Esq., of the N. Y. Tribune, who is spending a brief season in the State, were taken for a short ride over the city. At 3 P. M. the speakers arrived at the grounds and were received with applause as they ascended the platform, where a number of the most prominent citizens of Bangor and vicinity were assembled. At this time the platform was surrounded by a dense mass of people, numbering thousands, including many ladies. The meeting was called to order by C. A. Boutelle, on behalf of the Republican State Committee, who at once introduced Edward B. Nealley, Esq., as Chairman of the occasion.

Mr. Nealley was cordially greeted and after expressing gratification at the spirit manifested by so large an assemblage, briefly referring to the importance of the campaign and the objects of these meetings, he very gracefully and eloquently introduced the gallant soldier and accomplished Chief Magistrate who has been an honor to his country in peace as well as in war,

GENERAL SELDEN CONNOR.

The Governor was received with three hearty cheers as he laid aside his crutches and advanced to the front of the platform. When the applause and cheers had subsided, Gov. Connor proceeded to express his gratitude for the warmth of the greeting, and congratulated the audience upon the interest that the large assembly indicated in the affairs of the country. He did not intend to speak of the affairs of the State. The people of Maine, though proud of their good old State, have not held that regard in any narrow sense. But the welfare of their country was their first solicitude. This election should not only indicate the State Government; but the people are to select the kind of administration they want for the country.

The Republican party appeals to us to rally as of old; the people of the country look to Maine for the key note in this election—for an indication of the mind of an intelligent people in a most important national crisis.

If the party raises the same banners as in days gone by, it is because the same foes are now in the field.

The Republican party has lived long and its services have been faithful. Its usefulness is not yet ended; it has a mission still to perform. It made all slaves freemen, and freemen citizens. It's work now is to protect that citizenship. It is, indeed, very humiliating to know that in sections of this country, citizenship, with all that term implies, is held to be of so little value.

The Republican party must expect to meet the solid South in this campaign. It means that those Southern men who failed to destroy the Union by war, now seek by violence to trample upon the rights of weaker citizens—now seek to stifle the majority by intimidation, by outrage and murder. The Southern leaders propose to give Mr. Tilden a solid South by organized intimidation. They may not use the shot gun. They may not re-enact Hamburg and Colfax, but by a secret organization they will carry out their purpose. A solid South for Tilden means that the Republican organizers on the peril of their lives dare not undertake to take the measures necessary to bring about a full vote.

Read the Southern journals and learn from them that radicalism is a crime not to be proceeded against too harshly.

Scott Lord recently introduced a resolution in the House, which was a confession of what the whole country is aware of; but it came too late to do them any good in this campaign.

The ruffians in the South are regardless of law and order, and justify their crimes by stating that there are no existing laws which oppose the 14th amendement. But desperadoes do not act under laws. What is public opinion worth when it raises no voice against such misdeeds as have been committed in the South, and no strong arm to punish them? What is American citizenship worth if it does not carry with it such sacredness that nowhere in this broad land there shall be violation of it.

The government which is now celebrating its Centennial anniversary, is not a good government if it does not fulfill the prime functions of government by maintaining law and order. It is not a free government in which a citizen cannot cast a vote without fear. It is not a just government if every man cannot be protected in his dearest rights.

He asked his comrades in arms if they did not feel disgraced when those who loved the flag—that emblem of Justice—were stricken down on account of their political opinions. Though they were dark in color, the same red blood flowed in their veins. They were ever patriots, and always faithful to their country. Every true, generous heart must sympathize with the Republican party in its noble work. The party contemplates no counter prosecution, but wishes to restore peace, justice and good government in the South.

The work of the Republican party is to carry out and defend the principles in the Constitution in their regular order. It is to that party we are indebted for the perfect union we now enjoy; and for wiping out the stain of slavery. All the good acts of the Democratic party do not amount to a tithe in comparison with the emancipation of four millions of slaves. The duty of the party now is to restore domestic tranquility.

The Democrats cry out against the depression in business and the high rate of taxation, and yet they advocate doing away with the protection of our own industries.

There are three stages in national progress.—First, when it produces food but imports all of its products of skilled labor; second, when its skilled labor supplies the home demand; third, when skilled labor furnishes goods for other markets. We have reached the last stage. Our present stagnation arises from the fact that we want a market for our supplies. Where shall we get it? In the South there are 4,000,000 of people who are but small consumers. They have been slaves. They do not appreciate the blessings of civilization. Educate them; stimulate them by teaching them to accumulate property; inspire in them self-respect and they will become consumers of the products of skilled labor.

The Democratic party ask for a preparation for the resumption of specie payments; but it means nothing—it is a sham. The Republican party states a specific date for resumption.

In this work of the party we have Rutherford B. Hayes, of Ohio, as a standard-bearer. If he has not been great enough to satisfy our opponents by defeating three of their most eminent leaders, we will make him so by elevating him to the Chief Magistracy of the Nation.

We, in Maine, regret that our own noble statesman, James G. Blaine, was not nominated at Cincinnati. He had shown the rebels up in their true light and exposed their hypocricy. But we now bow to the will of the convention, and are proud to feel and to know that our standard-bearers there selected are in every way worthy of our confidence and our support. Gov. Connor then thanked the audience for their attention, and closed with a neat and graceful allusion to Col. Robert G. Ingersoll.

The Governor's remarks were earnest, forcible and eloquent, and were received with the closest attention and interest. At his conclusion he was warmly congratulated upon an address which did honor to his intellect, to his heart and to the position which he holds.

COL. INGERSOLL'S GREAT SPEECH.

After music by the Band, the Chairman referred in glowing terms to the bonds of sympathy between Maine and the Great West, which stood so nobly by our favorite at Cincinnati, and especially to Illinois, whose gifted son had so gloriously championed Mr. Blaine in that great Convention. As Col. Ingersoll was introduced, he was welcomed with tumultuous cheers, which he gracefully acknowledged. He said he had often been told that he had not seen Maine unless he had been at Bangor, and that he would find this city as hearty as the West itself. He had come here, and the spirit of this assemblage had convinced him that his information was correct. He warmly thanked his audience for their cordial greeting and then proceeded at once to his subject, gaining the absorbed interest of all from the first utterance. He was somewhat annoyed by a hoarseness caused by his recent speaking, but his voice was clearly audible to all present, and every word was caught by eager ears. We can only give a hasty and imperfect sketch of a few of the opening passages, as follows:

I have the honor to belong to the Republican party. The grandest, the sublimest party in the history of the world. This grand party is not only in favor of the liberty of the body, but also the liberty of the soul. This sublime party gives to all the labor of their hands and of their brains. This party allows every person to think for himself and to express his thoughts. The Republican party forges no chains for the minds, no fetters for the souls of men. It declares that the intellectual domain shall be forever free. In the free air there is room for every wing. The Republican party endeavors to remove all obstructions on the highway of progress. In this, sublime undertaking it asks the assistance of all. Its platform is continental. Upon it there is room for the Methodist, the Baptist, the Catholic, the Universalist, the Presbyterian, and the Free Thinker. There is room for all who are in favor of the preservation of the sacred rights of men.

This is a free country. I am a free man. I had rather die a beggar covered with rags, with soul erect, fearless and free, than to live in a palace of gold, covered with the purple of power, with my soul slimy with hypocrisy, crawling in the dust of fear.

I am going to give you a few reasons for voting the Republican ticket. The Republican party depends upon reason, upon argument, upon education, upon intelligence and upon patriotism. The Republican party depends upon schools, not upon brothels. It makes no appeal to ignorance or prejudice. It wishes to destroy both. It is the party of humanity, the party that hates caste, that honors labor, that rewards toil, that believes in justice. It appeals to all that is elevated and noble in man, to the higher instincts, to the nobler aspirations. It has accomplished grand things. Its record is kept open, and it points with pride to every shining page. It does not ask you to forget, but to remember. It does not say, "Let bygones be bygones," but challenges the scrutiny of each and all. The horizon of the past is filled with the glory of Republican achievement. The monuments of its wisdom, its power and patriotism crowd all the fields of conflict.

Upon the Constitution this party wrote equal rights for all; upon every statute book, humanity; upon the flag, liberty. The Republican party of the United States is the conscience of the 19th century. It is the justice of this age, the embodiment of social progress and honor. It has no knee for the past. Its face is toward the future. It is the party of advancement, of the dawn, of the sunrise.

The Republican party commenced its grand career by saying that the institution of human slavery had cursed enough American soil; that the territories should not be damned by that most infamous thing; that this country was sacred to freedom; that slavery had gone far enough. Upon that issue the great campaign of 1860 was fought and won. The Republican party was born of wisdom and conscience.

The people of the South claimed that slavery should be protected; that the doors of the territories should be thrown open to them and to their institutions. They not only claimed this, but they also insisted that the Constitution of the United States protected slave property the same as other property everywhere. The South was defeated, and then appealed to arms. In a moment all their energies were directed towards the destruction of this government. They commenced the war—they fired upon the flag that had protected them for nearly a century.

The North was compelled to decide instantly between the destruction of the nation and civil war.

The division between the friends and enemies of the Union at once took place. The government began to defend itself. To carry on the war money was necessary. The government borrowed, and finally issued its notes and bonds. The Democratic party in the North sympathized with the rebellion. Everything was done to hinder, embarrass, obstruct, and delay. They endeavored to make a rebel breastwork of the Constitution; to create a fire in the rear. They denounced the government, resisted the draft; shot United States officers; declared the war a failure and an outrage; rejoiced over our defeats, and wept and mourned at our victories.

To crush the rebellion in the South and keep in subjection the Democratic party at the North, thousands of millions of money were expended—the nation burdened with a fearful debt, and the best blood of the country poured out upon the fields of battle.

In order to destroy the rebellion it became necessary to destroy slavery. As a matter of fact slavery was the rebellion. As soon as this truth forced itself upon the Government—thrust, as it were, into the brain of the North upon the point of a rebel bayonet—the Republican party to destroy forever the last vestige of that savage and cruel institution—an institution that made white men devils and black men beasts.

The Republican party put down the rebellion; saved the nation; destroyed slavery; made the slave a citizen; put the ballot in the hands of the black man; forgave the assassins of the Government; restored nearly every rebel to citizenship, and proclaimed peace to and for each and all.

For sixteen years the country has been in the hands of that great party. For sixteen years that grand party, in spite of rebels in arms—in spite of the Democratic party of the North, has preserved the territorial integrity and the financial honor of the country. It has endeavored to enforce the laws; it has tried to protect loyal men at the South; it has labored to bring murderers and assassins to justice, and it is working now to preserve the priceless fruits of its great victory.

The present question is, whom shall we trust? To whom shall we give the reins of power? What party will best preserve the rights of the people? What party is most deserving of our confidence? There is but one way to determine the character of a party, and that is, by ascertaining its history.

Could we have safely trusted the Democratic party in 1860? No. And why not? Because it was a believer in the right of secession—a believer in the sacredness of human slavery. The Democratic party then solemnly declared—speaking through its most honored and trusted leaders—that each State had the right to secede. This made the Constitution a nudum pactum, a contract without a consideration, a Democratic promise, a wall of mist, and left every State free to destroy at will the fabric of American government—the fabric reared by our fathers through years of toil and blood.

Could we have safely trusted that party in 1864, when, in convention assembled, it declared the war a failure, and wished to give up the contest at a moment when universal victory was within the grasp of the Republic? Had the people put that party in power then, there would have been a Southern Confederacy to-day, and upon the limbs of four million people the chains of slavery would still have clanked. Is there one man present who to-day regrets that the Vallandingham Democracy of 1864 was spurned and beaten by the American people? Is there one man present who to-day regrets the utter defeat of that miscreancy of slavery, malice and meanness, called the Democratic party, in 1864?

Could we have safely trusted that party in 1868?

At that time the Democracy of the South was trying to humble and frighten the colored people or exterminate them. These inoffensive colored people were shot down without provocation, without mercy. The white Democrats were as relentless as fiends. They killed simply to kill. They murdered these helpless people, thinking that they were in some blind way getting their revenge upon the people of the North. No tongue can appreciate the [illegible] practised upon the helpless [illegible] of the South. These white Democrats had been reared amid and by slavery. Slavery knows no such thing as justice, no such thing as mercy. Slavery does not dream of governing by reason, by argument or persuasion. Slavery depends upon force, upon the bowie-knife, the revolver, the whip, the chain and the blood-hound. The white Democrats of the South had been reared amid slavery; they cared nothing for reason; they knew of but one thing to be used when there was a difference of opinion or a conflict of interest, and that was brute force. It never occurred to them to educate, to inform and to reason. It was easier to shoot than to reason; it was quicker to stab than to argue; cheaper to kill than to educate. A grave costs less than a school house; bullets were cheaper than books; and one knife could stab more than forty schools could convert.

They could not bear to see the negro free—to see the former slave trampling on his old chains holding a ballot in his hand. They could not endure the sight of a negro in office. It was gall and wormwood to think of a slave occupying a seat in Congress; to think of a negro giving his ideas about the political questions of the day. And so these white Democrats made up their minds that by a reign of terrorism they would drive the negro from the polls, drive him from all official position, and put him back in reality in the old condition. To accomplish this they commenced a system of murder, of assassination, of robbery, theft and plunder, never before equaled in extent and atrocity. All this was in its height when in 1868 the Democracy asked the control of the Government.

Is there a man here who in his heart regrets that the Democratic party failed in 1868? Do you wish that the masked murderers who rode in the darkness of night to the hut of the freedman and shot him down like a wild beast, regardless of the prayers and tears of wife and children, were now holding positions of honor and trust in this Government? Are you sorry that these assassins were defeated in 1868?

In 1872, the Democratic party, bent upon victory, greedy for office, with itching palms and empty pockets, threw away all principle—if Democratic doctrines can be called principles—and nominated a life-long enemy of their party for President. I saw it stated the other day in a Democratic paper that I supported Horace Greeley in 1872. I did no such thing. I supported the Republican party, which I support to-day. All believed that in the malicious clutch of the Democratic party Horace Greeley would be not a President, but a prisoner—not a ruler, but a victim. Against him personally, I have nothing to say. I simply congratulate him upon his escape from being used as a false key by that burglar, the Democratic party.

During all these years the Democratic party prophesied the destruction of the Government, the destruction of the Constitution, and the banishment of liberty from American soil.

In 1864 that party declared that after four years of failure to restore the Union by the experiment of war, there should be a cessation of hostilities. They then declared "that the Constitution had been violated in every part, and that public liberty and private rights had been trodden down."

And yet the Constitution remained and still remains; public liberty still exists, and private rights are still respected.

In 1868, growing more desperate, and being still filled with the spirit of prophesy, this same party in the platform said: "Under the repeated assaults of the Republican party, the pillars of the government are rocking on their base, and should it succeed in November next, and inaugurate its President, we will meet as a subjected and conquered people, amid the ruins of liberty and the scattered fragments of the Constitution."

The Republican party did succeed in November, 1868, and did inaugurate its President, and we did not meet as a subjected and conquered people amid the ruins of liberty and the scattered fragments of the Constitution. We met as victorious people, amid the proudest achievements of liberty, protected by a Constitution spotless and stainless—pure as the Alpine snow thrice sifted by the northern blasts.

The above is but the merest outline of the introductory portions of Col. Ingersoll's speech, whose rapidity, wealth of imagery and fervid eloquence utterly defies reporting. He proceeded to contrast the records of the two parties up to the present day, showing that the Democratic party long ago ceased to have an excuse for existence in an enlightened century. Coming to the candidates he sketched the career of Tilden, graphically describing his characteristics, citing his hostility to the Union cause and his adhesion to States Rights dogmas as ample reasons why he should never be made President. The spectacle of the Great Reformer cheating the Government out of his income tax was presented with a citation of his conflicting oaths, one of which declared to the U. S. Revenue officers that his total income was but $7,000, while the other in a litigation claimed the earning and receipt of $20,000 fees in a single case in that year. Perhaps the most amusing phase of the Colonel's speech was his reading of and commentary upon Tilden's tortuous and ambiguous efforts to say nothing in a great many words about finance. Under the speaker's trenchant analysis the insincerity, the absurdity and the knavery of Tilden's paltering with the simple but great question of public honesty, was made so plain that no one could fail to see through the gauze of verbiage with which the New York attorney has endeavored to trick out and disguise the rag baby that he adopted from Hendricks. In sharp contrast with the legal spider who is seeking to cover the Nation with his web, Colonel Ingersoll depicted the instinctive patriotism, the sterling honesty, and manly directness of Governor Hayes. And of Mr. Wheeler he was able to speak in similar terms of confidence and esteem. In conclusion he referred feelingly to the National importance of the Maine election, and with a glowing eulogy of Gen'l Connor's patriotism, urged his hearers to stand by the flag, the country and the cause of humanity and progress.

As we have before said no report could possibly do justice to such a masterly effort as that of the great Western Orator, and we have not attempted to convey any adequate impression of an address which is conceded on all hands to be the most remarkable for originality, power and eloquence ever heard in this section. Such a speech by such a man—if there is another—must be heard; the magnetism of the speaker must be felt; the indescribable influence must be experienced, in order to appreciate his wonderful power. The vast audience were alternately swayed from enthusiasm for the grand principles advocated to indignation at the crimes of Democracy, as the record of that party was scorched with his invective; from laughter at the ludicious presentment of Democratic inconsistencies, to tears brought forth by the pathos and eloquence of his appeals for justice and humanity. During portions of his address there was moisture in the eyes of nearly every person in the audience, and from opening to close he held the assemblage by a spell more potent than that of any other man we have ever heard speak. It was one of the grandest, most cogent and thrilling appeals in behalf of the great principles of liberty, loyalty and justice to all men, ever delivered, and we wish it might have been heard by every citizen of our beloved Republic. The Colonel was repeatedly urged by the audience to go on, and he spoke for about two hours with undiminished fervor. His hearers would gladly have given him audience for two hours longer, but with a splendid tribute to Mr. Blaine as the strongest tie between New England and the West, he took his seat amid the ringing cheers and plaudits of the assemblage.

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION OF MR. BLAINE.

In a few well-chosen and eloquent words Mr. Nealley introduced Maine's gallant and honored statesman, Hon. James G. Blaine, who was received with an enthusiastic outburst of applause lasting for several minutes. When it had subsided he disclaimed any intention to make a set speech after that of his distinguished friend, but in a clear, ringing voice called attention to some of the salient points in the canvass, and especially the foretaste of Democratic rule afforded by the arbitrary, unscrupulous and threatening course of the Democratic House under the lead of the Southern faction. He cited some of its outrageous acts and showed that no rights would be held sacred if the men who hated and sought to overthrow the Union are raised to its control. Mr. Blaine spoke with his customary incisive and impressive manner and was frequently interrupted by applause. In conclusion he urged upon the Republicans of Maine, the importance of the duty they owe not only to themselves but to their brethren elsewhere in the Union, and impressed upon them that our eager and vigilant opponents must be defeated by active and earnest effort. A large majority in Maine will have untold effect upon the National canvass, and we should send word along the line in September that the Pine Tree State has her Republican banner still full high advanced.

At the close of Mr. Blaine's remarks rousing cheers were given for him, for Hayes and Wheeler and for Governor Connor, and the meeting adjourned. The Band struck up a lively air and the great throng gradually dispersed, everybody feeling that the event had proved a glorious Republican success. The number in attendance was variously estimated by careful observers from four thousand to fifty-five hundred. The audience was excellent in its material, including the most prominent citizens of Bangor and many from other communities. There were quite a large number from the up river towns and also large delegations from Bucksport and places on this side of the river. The attendance of so many ladies was especially gratifying and in every respect, the meeting was highly satisfactory and auspicious.

THE TORCHLIGHT PROCESSION, DECORATIONS AND ILLUMINATIONS.

The grand torchlight procession which took place in the evening was a most brilliant affair, and the decorations and illuminations were very general, many houses being elaborately trimmed. There was hardly a house which was not lighted up, and the illumination was so general that the inquiry was frequently made as to where the Democrats lived. Companies A, B and C of the Hayes and Wheeler Battalion of this city, and about 50 of the Bucksport company formed in line in West Market Square in readiness to start at 8 o'clock. The two first named companies wore their new uniforms. The whole procession includ d about 225 torches.

The companies in uniform presented a very neat appearance, the red and white capes and caps contrasting finely with each other, and making an elegant show in the light of the lanterns. The marching was almost perfect, and when they proceeded in open order, the scene was very striking. Their marching and company movements would have done credit to older organizations.

The line started promptly on time, proceeding up Hammond street to Court. At the junction of these streets the companies gave hearty cheers for Dr. Field and Mr. Luther H. Eaton, whose residences were prettily decked with Chinese lanterns. The companies cheered at all the residences which were specially decorated along the route of the procession.

It would be utterly impossible to give in detail the decorations and illuminations of all the loyal people in Bangor; but we shall endeavor to mention in a brief manner the more prominent features of the brilliant displays along the route. On Hammond street, below Court, the residence of Jailor Whitney was adorned with Chinese lanterns. As the procession passed the Babcock engine house, the bell of the machine was rung by its loyal driver.

On Court street the following citizens took particular pains to make displays: Pierre McConville and the occupant of the upper tenement in the same block, W. C. Holt and Sidney Davis.

On Ohio street there was a particularly fine and elegant display of lanterns and fireworks. Among the most noticeable instances were those of Hon. Newell Blake, Dr. Butler and Daniel Lunt, E. H. Roberts, Dr. Jones, S. D. Thurston, Miss Belle Bartlett, Charles Hight, S. C. Hall, Frank Hight.

On Hammond street the Holly Hose Company's house was opened and lighted up. Capt. Small's residence was nicely decorated. In one window was a large cut of our next President, and in the other was his little daughter, almost fairy-like in appearance, standing like a little angel waving a flag. It was a very beautiful sight and attracted the admiration of the passers-by. Dean & Pierce's store and L. A. Barker's house completed the list on that street.

On Cedar street, our attention was called to the residences of Mrs. T. W. Baldwin, Seth Paine, D. P. and F. P. Wood, and Henry McLaughin.

On Third street, Col. Dunning received hearty cheers for his display of lanterns and flags.

On Union street, we noticed the residences of Messrs. Dole Brothers, and Dr. Jefferds. At the residence of Capt. Chas. Sanford, the companies cheered for the large number of ladies who waved handkerchiefs as they passed. At the Bangor House cheers were given for Col. Ingersoll and Hon. James G. Blaine.

On Main street, Messrs. Downing, Williams, Coombs, and A. L. & R. C. Boyd were illuminated.

When the line passed under the new and handsome Hayes and Wheeler flag, the whole square resounded with lusty cheers.

On Kenduskeag bridge the loyalty of Tea White and the proprietors of the WHIG AND COURIER, and Messrs. Burr & Robinson, was recognized by the passing column.

On State street we noticed the residences of Mrs. Dr. McRuer, D. K. Tuck, Dr. Walton.

On Essex street illuminations were made by W. H. Bishop, Geo. Wight, and at this latter place there was the following placard on an Oak tree; "Oak, not Lyndon." The other residences were those of C. E. Lyon, F. H. Dillingham, T. D. Chamberlain, Dr. Walker, J. H. Kent, Capt. Frank Ames, Carlostin Jewell, and S. R. Ydaton.

On Grove street we noticed the residences of Mr. John L. Crosby, E. B. Thatcher, E. H. Fogg, Ed. Wyman, C. B. Wyman, Mrs. R. M. Stockwell, Isaac Merrill, J. F. Blethen, Joseph Blake and E. W. Ware.

The members of the companies uncovered their heads while passing Mr. C. D. Clark's on Lime street.

On State street the most noticeable residences were those of J. E. M. Sanford, Mrs. Col. Eddy, Michael Schwarts, Edwin Clark, Mrs. John Patten, J. W. Palmer, and Mrs. Col. Jameson.

The Bucksport Company left the line at half past nine, before the battalion moved on to Broadway. On the latter named street, the most attractive decorations were those of J. B. Foster, J. G. Clark, T. N. Egery, G. K. Jewett, Mrs. Hinckley, Gilbert Howell, Gen. Plaisted and George Lancaster.

On French street, illuminations were to be seen at the houses of A. M. Campbell, M. Jackson, C. E. Getchell, George Gorham, Messrs. Fenno and Wiggin, E. F. Dillingham, E. T. Fox, Dr. Hamlin, F. Garland, G. W. Merrill, Charles Lord, Geo. Stetson, W. C. Pitman and Silas Alden.

Gilman Brothers', and A. F. Hill's stores on East Market Square were decorated with flags.

The battalion marched up Harlow street to Dr. Sanger's, where Gov. Connor was stopping, and there formed in line in front of the house. Gov. Connor appeared and was greeted with cheers for which he courteously thanked the companies, who bade him good night and retired, after giving three more cheers.

They then marched to West Market Sq., where they disbanded, after hearty cheers.

Among those residences outside the line of march that were illuminated, our attention was called to that of Mr. J. F. Snow, the President of the Hayes and Wheeler Club, who resides on State street. His house was handsomely and effectively illuminated with colored glass as in 1872.—The residence of Mr. J. Swett Rowe, on Centre street, was illuminated with rows of Chinese lanterns, hung across the street and diagonally across the house. At the residence of the late Gen. Hersey there was a brilliant display of lanterns and mottoes, which lighted up the grounds, causing a most beautiful appearance.

The bells on Union Hose carriage were rung while the procession passed the house.

The thanks of the companies are due to Mr. G. E. Dole, who marched at the head of the column, lighting large numbers of Roman candles, at repeated intervals, along the route of the procession.

In our hurried march over the route we undoubtedly omitted to notice many dwellings, but it could hardly be avoided in such a hurried and unsatisfactory glance along the streets. In addition to the names given above, there were many who lighted up their houses to the very attics in honor of the occasion.

The whole scene was thrilling and attractive, and contributed very largely to the grand success of the day.

FROM BIDDEFORD.

The Camp Meeting

BIDDEFORD, Aug. 24. Another beautiful day for the worshippers beneath the pines of Old Orchard Camp Ground. The attendance has been the largest since the meeting began, Monday last. This morning 2000 people listened to a very good sermon from Rev Mr Strout, of Elliott, and at the close, a goodly number rose for prayers This afternoon, Rev Ammi S. Ladd, of the Wesleyan church, Bath, delivered a very able sermon from the text, "Acknowledge Him, and He shall lead thy paths" Fully 4000 people remained in the seats till the close, and all were deeply impressed, pronouncing it one of the best sermons ever preached on the grounds. Mr Ladd, is probably, all things considered the ablest pulpit orator in the Methodist Church of Maine. He referred to the inclination to unbelief and to infidelism, Christ, himself, could accomplish but little in some places, because of their unbelief there was a God, the God of the Bible, he owns everything on this footstool, every star that shines, every sun that turns, every moon that beams, He is all infinite, all powerful, and all glorious, a man who does not believe in God cannot be happy, a person cannot believe in God, be led and directed by God, and be a drunkard, be a thief, or be a prostitute This evening, a fair sized audience gathered to hear Rev. Mr. Gibson. Bishop Gilbert Haven arrived this evening He will preach to-morrow, and a very large number may be expected.

The object of the suit was to enforce the provisions of several laws passed at the last session of the Legislature reducing the tolls on the Cumberland & Pennsylvania Railroad. the ownership of which was subsequently acquired by the consolidated companies and the stock of which is principally owned in New York. THE NEW YORK STATE TICKET.

The Ticket a Strong One.

Opinions of the New York Papers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. The morning papers all have something to say about the Republican State ticket, put in nomination yesterday.

From the Herald.

Mr. Morgan is a strong candidate aside from the fact that his nomination restores harmony in the distracted party He is an able and experienced party tactician He is well known to the business men of this city, and enjoys their confidence to as great a degree as Gov Tilden himself. He has the prestige of being the great war Governor He is among the hardest of hard money men and nobody doubts his straightforward sincerity on this great question. The nomination of Mr Rogers for the second place is one of the best that could have been made, and the ticket as a whole will be a very hard one to beat

From the World.

Saratoga has made itself the echo of Cincinnati It is clear from the action of the State Convention of New York as it was from the action of the National Convention of the National Republicans that no man who was presented as a candidate of the reform element in the Republican party can receive a nomination. Evarts has gone to meet Bristow. Ex-Governor Morgan has simply given himself up to be food for powder. He is an acceptable offering for losing the campaign, as he has enormous wealth and has always been lavish of it for political purposes

From the Times

The work of the Saratoga Convention insures a Republican victory in this State Edwin D Morgan may be trusted to forget neither the vital principles which the party maintained alike through years of trial and years of triumph, nor to be insensible to the demands of a time when Republicans alone can save the nation from dishonor as it saved it from despotism It can uproot corruption as it crushed rebellion

From the Tribune.

Next to the choice of Mr. Evarts, we count that of Gov. Morgan the best that could have been made He is a man long trained in public service, of unimpeachable record and unquestioned fidelity to the best elements and tendencies of the Republican party. He will command the support of all the dissatisfied elements and will make a stirring canvass. We believe he can get enough doubtful voters to be elected and to carry the State for Hayes and Wheeler

From the Sun.

Mr Morgan is perhaps as strong a candidate as the Republicans could have selected.

The 4 1-2 Funded Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Aug 24 Negotiations for the 4½ funded bonds have been closed to embrace all parties bidding, comprising the Rothschilds Syndicate, National Banks Syndicate and Von Hoffman & Co's Syndicate. The New Pension Office.

The Secretary of the Interior has leased from ex-Governor Sheppard, the upper portion of the new fire proof building, corner of Pennsylvania Avenue and 15th street, for the use of the Pension Office and Bureau of Education, at an annual rental of $15,000 By a clause in the legislative appropriation bill, $14,000 were appropriated for this purpose. The fact that the amount specified in the lease is larger than that stipulated by Congress, is explained by an arrangement made which relieves the Government from heating the building All the rooms are supplied with steam heaters and Sheppard proposes to supply the requisite warmth during the season without charge

The Contract Closed.

WASHINGTON, Aug 24 The Secretary of the Treasury to-day concluded a contract for the sale of $300,000,000 4½ per cent bonds to be issued under the funding acts of 1870 and 1871 and due in 1891 The combination unites the three parties who have been competing for the loan. The amount taken by the firm is $40,000,000 at par and interest, less than one half per cent commission, out of which all the expenses are to be defrayed, including the preparation and delivery of the bonds The Secretary of the Treasury will shortly issue a call for the redemption of 5 20 bonds against the negotiation,

FOREIGN NEWS.

THE TURCO-SERVIAN WAR

The Peace Consideration.

VIENNA, Aug 24. Servia's delay in accepting the good offices offered by all the Powers, at England's initiative, is occasioned by the remonstrances of Montenegro, who fears being exposed to the whole force of Turkey in the event of Servia concluding a seperate peace. A compromise has consequently been arranged in accordance with which Servia makes one more effort in which Montenegro will cooperate This explains the sudden march of the Prince of Montenegro towards Kalasden, where he will unite with the forces under his brother-in-law Yukovich, with the intention of attacking the Turks about Silnitza, in conjunction with the Servian force in the same neighborhood.

Wednesday's Fighting

BELGRADE, Aug. 24 Official despatches recounting yesterday's fighting, says both sides maintain their position The Turks have received reinforcements to the number of 50,000 Yesterday afternoon it was rumored that the Turks had abandoned Saitschar. The correspondent adds I am disposed to believe that they have done so in order to control all their forces for an attack on Alexanitz.

Alexanitz.

ALEXANITZ Aug. 24 All civilians have been ordered to quit Alexanitz The bombardment may be expected to-night.

The Salonica Outrage

LONDON, Aug. 24 A despatch from Constantinople says the French and German ambassadors have informed the Porte that their governments are satisfied with the reparation made by the Turkish government for the Salonica outrage.

Affairs in Crete.

The Daily News' Vienna despatch says the Porte has refused to consider the Greek note respecting Crete, until the termination of the war Meanwhile business in Crete is at a standstill, and the judges refuse to sit

Four Turkish Attacks Repulsed

A despatch from Belgrade says the Turks yesterday made three desperate attacks on the Servian position, at Alexinatz, and some of the Servian battalions lost more than a quarter of their strength. Several Russian officers were killed, and the Turks also lost heavily, being exposed to a cross fire of artillery from the entrenchments The Servians were commanded by Gen Tchernayeff in person, who succeeded in repulsing the Turks on each occasion. The Turks renewed the attack early this morning, and were repulsed along the whole line, and fell back a distance of two kilometres Gen. Tchernayeff is understood to have decided, in the event of a defeat, to fall back on Belgrade Curiza, on the Moravia river, has been fortified as a third line of defence If successful, he will advance on Nich, in the direction of which, the Servian General Narvatovich is now advancing. Gen. Tchernayeff telegraphs Prince Milan as follows Our affairs are not progressing badly The Turks have evacuated the line of Fimoski, but still occupy Saitschar

ROME, Aug 24. A convocation of Cardinals is now sitting here to ascertain the feasibility of introducing certain modification in the system of electing Popes so that the electors may exercise full liberty when it becomes necessary to elect a successor to the present Pope

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

Some ugly disclosures will soon be made about pardon brokerage in Andy Johnson's time, affecting the reputation of a living and a dead Democrat

The Republican party has fully harmonized in Florida, and also in Arkansas, and it hopes to carry the former State.

The N. Y Herald says the country knows "how Buchanan tampered with secession, as Tilden in his letter tampers with inflation, how he made 'concessions' to Slidell and Brekenbridge, as Tilden makes 'concessions to Hendricks and Ewing, how, in the end, the evil with which he tampered swept over him, covering his name and his administration with contempt, sweeping the country into war This is a fatal memory to arouse."

The Blackfeet, in Canada, give Sitting Bull the cold shoulder, when he entreats them to join him in his warlike enterprises. With characteristic insolence he threatens them with severe punishment so soon as he has finished with the Americans.

The Ohio Democrats are a genial set of men Witness this paragraph in the Cincinnati Enquirer "Mr. Cox stood beside the bed of Mr. Kerr and watched the dissolution of the spirit. His telegram—his feeling telegram—giving an account of the dead event, is sent to the country through the medium of the Associated Press. It is understood that Mr. Cox will be a candidate for the Speakership next Winter."

MAINE SCHOOL REPORT.—We have received from Warren Johnson, Esq., State Superintendent of Common Schools of Maine, the twenty-second annual report of the schools in this State for 1875. From it we gather the following facts:

Population of State, census of 1875, 626,-915; number of towns in the State, 431; plantations, 79; whole number of scholars between 4 and 21, 223,477, which is a decrease of 3,743 from 1874. The number registered in summer schools was 117,831, and in winter schools, 180,583. Of these the average attendance in summer was 95,056, and in winter, 105,526. There are 40,130 school houses in the State, of which 104 were built in 1874. The estimated value of all school property is $3,019,849. In winter there are 1,564 male and 2,475 female teachers employed, while in summer there are 171 male and 4,028 female. The total amount expended for schools from April 1, 1875, to April 1, 1876, was $1,046,566.

The potato business is becoming quite a traffic in this vicinity. The Katahdin took 1600 barrels from this city to Boston, last Wednesday, and left a large number for the Cambridge.

THE CAMPAIGN

Enthusiastic Meeting at Milo

A large and enthusiastic meeting at Milo on Wednesday afternoon was addressed by Hon Hannibal Hamlin and Hon Llewellyn Powers It was a much larger political meeting than has been held in Milo for many years. The speakers were very able and well received, and the indication is that the Republicans of Milo will give their united votes for the whole Republican ticket The number of Republican votes in Milo, if any not containing all the regular Republican nominees will be exceedingly small.

The meeting at Brownville on Wednesday evening was the largest and most enthusiastic ever held in that town Mr Powers made a very able and interesting speech, which was listened to with great interest Senator Hamlin followed Mr Powers in a speech, replete in sound sense, logic and eloquence, which did not fail to produce an effect upon the minds of intelligent men The speakers were frequently interrupted by applause The Sebec Band was present and discoursed excellent music The vote in Brownville will be as favorable to all the Republican nominees as in Milo

Glimpses from Wesleyan Grove

UNDER CANVASS
Wesleyan Grove, 24, 1876

The weather to day is at its finest and the campmeeting tide is at its full height The highway from Belfast is filled with teams in a dusty and almost unbroken procession pouring its stream of humanity into the grounds, while from any point among the islands the water craft is bringing a similar freight At 4 o clock yesterday afternoon there were six steamers moored at the wharf—the barge Clifford with her consort Ralph Ross the Howell, the Pioneer, of the Belfast and Castine line, Clara Clarita of Rockland, and the Charles Houghton from down the bay all either receiving or discharging crowds of excursionists.

This noon the Rockland steamer again brings its excusionary crowd, and the Pioneer with a large vessel in tow comes loaded with an excursion party from the interior towns via the Belfast railroad, accompanied by the Watervaile Brass Band An hour later the Bangor and river towns contribute largely to the dense throng, and as we pencil this there are not less than ten thousand people on the grounds. The portion of the grove not occupied by tents, and covering nearly five acres, is packed with carriages, and nearly all available shade-room is covered with picnic spreads The cry of thirsty souls is for water, which is now peddled out a half-mile away at five cents the pailful. Our semi-official informant reports the number of habitations at 597, besides covered hammocks and vessels used as lodging-houses.

At the general business meeting yesterday afternoon, following an able an eloquent discourse by the Rev. J. S. Whedon, of Hyde Park, Mass., which held the close attention of the grand audience, the annual election of officers of the Wesleyan Grove Campmeeting Association for the ensuing year, took place President, Reuben A. Rich, of Winterport, Secretary, Rev. Albert Church, of Orrington, Treasurer, Hon. Hiram Ruggles, of Carmel, Trustees, Hiram Ruggles, David Brown of Hamden, Horace Mazzy of Searsmont, Irvin Calderwood of Belfast, E. M. Tibbets of Dexter, Jonathan Burbank of Bangor, S. Gould of Rockland.

The affairs of the Association will thus continue in efficient and progressive hands. Without going into an exact financial detail, the following items will be of interest, and indicate the progress of improvement: Two years ago the Association was $900 in debt. Since then the much-needed and excellent wharf, costing $2,400, and the boarding-house, seating two hundred persons in its dining rooms and kept in first-class style, and costing with its furniture about $5,000, have been erected. A family grocery store in the basement, constantly supplied with the products of the kitchen bakery above, does excellent service for the cottagers and the campmeeting multitude. A large stable at the highway entrance is just completed. Two large wells have just been added to the five in previous use, but are not yet available for the supply of the multitude. The great want of this growing city could not recall an instance in which he had exhibited any loyalty. At last he was asked, "Well, when Fort Sumter was fired on, what did he say?" "I dismember what the Jurge did say,, but I know he felt just as I did." "And pray, sir, how did you feel?" "Well, the fact is, I always have felt that the firing on Fort Sumter was premature."

ARRANGED AT ST LOUIS If the Democrats carry the November election, and elect Tilden, the South is to be pacified, according to an arrangement made at the St Louis Convention, by receiving indemnity for the slaves freed, and for the cotton and other property destroyed, belonging to rebels, pensions are also to be paid to soldiers wounded in the Confederate service, and to the heirs of those killed, to bridge the chasm thoroughly, it is also proposed to confer brevets upon all who served with gallantry on the secession side during the war.—[Washington Chronicle

M. C Butler, the leader in killing the negroes at Hamburg laughs at the idea of being punished, and says that when the authorities prosecute him they will find out that public sentiment sustains him. Indeed, Butler has taken the stump for Tilden and Wade Hampton and reform, and addressed a large meeting in their behalf on Saturday week, at Edgefield, the shire town of the county in which Hamburg is The meeting was originally called as a Republican meeting, and was to be addressed by Gov Chamberlain and Robert Smalls, the colored member of Congress But when these speakers arrived at Edgefield they found Butler there with a mob of white ruffians Butler took possession of the stand and allowed Governor Chamberlain to make an half hour speech After which Butler made his Tilden speech, but refused to allow Smalls to say a word None of the six or eight hundred colored men who had come to the meeting were allowed by Butler to come near the stand The Charleston News, a Democratic paper, says that Gov Chamberlain thought it best to bear with Butler's insolence rather than give a pretence for another massacre

Liberate the Impurities of the System.

This can easily be done through the instrumentality of the searching blood depurent and alterative, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which incites those scavengers of the body, the kidneys and the bowels to vigorous action The first named organs secrete impurities—where such exist—from the blood, which would otherwise poison it, and it is the office of the bowels to carry off the useless portions of the food rejected during the process of digestion, and which if retained interfere with digestion and bilious secretion Rheumatism and gout, both products of acid elements in the circulation, are remedied by the Bitters, which will likewise be found a prompt though gentle cathartic. The kidneys and bowels are invigorated, as well as stimulated by this famous medicine, which possesses tonic properties of the highest order

For Ulcers and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin Pustules, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tetter Salt Head and Ringworm YECETINE has never failed to effect a permanent cure

For Pains in the Back, Kidney Complaints Dropsy, Female Weakness, Leucorrhœa arising from internal ulceration and uterine diseases and General Debility, YECETINE acts in such perfect accordance with the simple laws of nature, that the causes of these complaints are eradicated and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs, allays inflammation, cures ulceration and regulates the bowels.

UNQUALIFIED APPRECIATION.

BOSTON, Nov 13, 1875

H R STEVENS, Esq

DEAR SIR—During the past five years I have had ample opportunity to judge of the merit of YECETINE My wife has used it for complaints adapted to a lady of delicate health with more beneficial results than anything else which she ever tried I have given it to my children under almost every form of complaint to which little ones are liable, and always with marked benefit. I have taken it myself with such great benefit that I cannot find words to express my unqualified appreciation of its goodness

My neighbors as well as Police Officers in this city, it has been my lot to fall in with a great deal of sickness Unhesitatingly recommend Yecetine, and never knew of a case where it did not prove all that was claimed for it. Particularly in cases of a debilitated or impoverished state of the blood its effects are really wonderful and for all complaints arising from an impure state of the blood it is unequalled As a citizen and police officer I do not believe there are any circumstances under which Yecetine can be used with injurious results but know it will always afford me pleasure to give any further information as to what I know about Yecetine
